

October 3 – Saco, ME

We lingered at the RV this morning, relaxing, and just enjoying life. We took the dogs to the beach, which they really love and after September 30 is an off-leash area, so they got to run, wrestle, and of course dig while we got to enjoy their joy. The tide was low so there were lots of beach and some rocks we could not see at high tide.

Late afternoon we decided to see a movie at the cinema, we figured on Monday not many people would be there. This was our first movie theater experience in years. We first went to Ottos inside the theater, we were the only customers besides a couple of takeout orders. The pizza was especially good with some unusual toppings available like butternut squash, roasted cauliflower, and eggplant. This pizza is well worth a return. Then we saw Avatar in the Imax where we were 2 of 4 people in the entire theater. We love retirement!
