

October 14 – College Park, MD

We piled into Anne and Bill's car on this beautiful day and set out to explore Baltimore. Fort McHenry National Monument and Shrine was our first stop. This is where an 1812 battle took place, protecting Baltimore from the British which inspired the Star-Spangled Banner.

We drove by the control center for the James Webb Telescope. Bill was going to get us in to look at it, but the telescope is so automated that the center is un-manned most of the time, including today.

We got some mostly delicious vegan soul food and strolled through the shore front in Baltimore.

October 14 – College Park, MD

